

Holiday Homework-III

Dear Parents,

Films as dream. Films as music. No art passes our conscience in the way film does and goes directly to our feelings deep down into the dark rooms of our souls. Just like fables and children's stories, movies are an eminent tool for educating children and embellishing their character. There is always something that one gains from watching a good film. Good films possess the ability to teach children different cultures, to teach them history, accustom them to fundamental values, show them how to think, .....all in a simple and entertaining way.

Usually, for children, it is considered to be more important, in them to create a love of reading, which is correct. But Movies are an excellent option to compliment a child's education and bring imagination to life. A movie is a perfect art. It will not give, the children, what they desire but, it will tell them how to desire. Both audio and visual media are great ways to capture a child's attention and slowly introduce new ideas and contents in the young minds. "As a picture is worth 1000 words so a moving picture must be worth like millions!!"

Given below is a list of movies, choose any three of them and watch with your children. They will really love them.

1. I am Kalam
2. Malala
3. Toy's story (Part I)
4. Spies in disguise
5. Finding Dory

Assignment: Make a short video of enacting your favourite characters (any two) from the above-mentioned movies.
